- (iii) Willfully or negligently, in relation to his activities as an estate agent, prepare, make or assist any other person to prepare or make any false statement, whether orally or in writing or sign a false statement in relation thereto knowing it to be false, or knowingly or recklessly prepare or maintain any false books of accounts or other records;
- (iv) Claim to be an expert or to have specialized knowledge in respect of any estate agency service if, in fact, he is not such an expert or does not have such special knowledge;
- (v) Advertise or otherwise market immovable property in respect of which he has been given a mandate to sell or let, at a price or rental other than that agreed upon with the seller or lessor of the property;
- (vi) without derogating from the generality of the foregoing;
 - (a) Willfully or negligently mislead or misrepresent in regard to any matter pertaining to the immovable property in respect of which he has a mandate;
 - (b) Use any harmful or misleading marketing technique or method to influence any person to confer upon him a mandate to render any estate agency service or to sell, purchase, let or hire immovable property, having regard to the circumstances surrounding the transaction or proposed transaction;
- vii) Use any firm or trading name in respect of his business if such name may give rise to confusion on the part of the public in respect of the nature of the business carried on by him;
 - (i) Inform a seller or purchaser, or prospective seller or purchaser, of immovable property in respect of which he has been given a mandate to sell or purchase, that he has obtained an offer in respect of the property from a purchaser or the seller (as the case may be), unless such offer;

- (a) Is in writing and
- (b) Has been signed by the offeror and
- (c) Is in the knowledge of the estate agent concerned, a bonafide offeror.
 - (ii) Affix any board or notice to immovable property indicating that such property is for sale or hire or has been sold or let, unless;
 - (a) The seller or lessor, as the case maybe, has given his written consent to do so;
 - (b) The estate agent concerned in fact has a mandate to sell or let the property, or in fact has sold or let the property as the case maybe.

8. Duties in respect of offers and contracts

No estate agent:

- i. Who has a mandate to sell or purchase immovable property shall willfully fail to present or cause to be presented to the seller or purchaser concerned, any offer to purchase or sell such property, received prior to the conclusion of a contract of sale in respect of such property, unless the seller or purchaser (as the case may be) has instructed him expressly not to present such offer;
- ii. Who has a mandate to sell immovable property, may present competing offers to purchase the property in such a manner as to induce the seller to accept any particular offer without regard to the advantages and/or disadvantages of each offer for the seller;
- iii. Shall amend any provision of a signed offer or a written mandate or any contract of sale or lease, without the knowledge and express consent of the offeror or the parties to the contract, as the case maybe.

An estate agent shall:

- iv. Explain to every prospective party to any written offer or contract negotiated or procured by him in his capacity as an estate agent, prior to signing by such party, the meaning and consequences of the material provisions of such offer or contract, or, if he is unable to do so, refer such party to a person who can do so;
- v. If he knows that an offer submitted by him as an estate agent to any party has been accepted, or has not been accepted by the expiry date thereof, forth with notify the offeror of such fact;
- vi. without undue delay furnish every contracting party with a copy of an agreement of sale, lease or mandate with which he is concerned as an estate agent, provided that the afore going shall also apply in respect of an offer to purchase or lease if the offeror specifically requests a copy thereof.

9. Prohibition against undue influence

No estate agent shall without good and sufficient cause, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatsoever, solicit, encourage, persuade or influence any party or potential party to a pending or a completed transaction to utilize or refrain from utilizing:

- (i) The services of any particular attorney, conveyancer or firm of attorneys;
- (ii) The services of any financial institution to members of the public in general; or
- (iii) The financial assistance offered to such party by any person.

10. Remuneration

No estate agent shall:

- i) Demand or receive directly or indirectly any remuneration, commission, benefit or gain arising from or connected with any completed, pending or proposed contract of sale or lease which is subject to a condition, until such time as that condition has been fulfilled;

Provided that the foregoing shall not apply if good cause exists; and the party liable for the payment of the remuneration, commission, benefit or gain has expressly consented in a written document executed independently of the contract in question, to such payment at any time, notwithstanding the fact that the said contract is subject to a condition, as the case may be; and such document contains an explanation of the implications and financial risks for such party to such payment; and such document is signed by such party and the estate agent in question;

- ii) Convey to his client or any other party to a completed or proposed transaction in which he acted or acts as an estate agent, that he is precluded by law from charging less than a particular commission or fee, or that such commission or fee is prescribed bylaw, the board or any institute or association of estate agents or any other body;
- iii) Introduce a prospective purchaser or lessee to any immovable property or to the seller or lessor thereof, if he knows, or has reason to believe, that such person has already been introduced to such property or the seller or lessor thereof by another estate agent and that there is a likelihood that his client may have to pay commission to such other, or to more than one, estate agent should the sale or lease be concluded through his intervention:

Provided that the foregoing shall not apply if the estate agent has informed his client of such likelihood and obtained his written consent to introduce such party to the property or the seller or lessor thereof;

- iv) Include, or cause to be included, or accept the benefit of, any clause in a mandate or in a contract of sale or lease of immovable property, providing for payment to him by such client of immovable property, of any remuneration, commission, benefit or gain arising from or connected with a contract of sale or lease, regardless of the fact whether such client is financially able to fulfill his obligations in terms of the said contract:

Provided that the foregoing shall not apply if good cause exists; and the seller or lessor has, prior to his signature of the contract or mandate (as the case may be) consented in writing in a document executed independently of the said mandate and contract, to such payment; and such document contains an explanation of the implications and financial risks for the seller or lessor of such payment; and such document is signed by both the estate agent and the seller or lessor;

- v) Include, or cause to be included, or accept the benefit of, any clause in a contract of sale or lease of immovable property negotiated by him, entitling him to deduct from any money entrusted to him in terms of the contract, any remuneration, commission, benefit or gain arising from or connected with such contract:

Provided that the afore going shall not be so construed so as to prohibit an estate agent from making such deduction when such money is actually paid over by him to the party entitled thereto and such party is in terms of the said contract liable for the payment of such remuneration, commission, benefit or gain

11. Trust money, Commissions and interest

An estate agent:
